Contact With Dr Beesworth.

As our readers will recall we were in receipt of a brief message from Dr Beesworth and his intrepid companions via the means of the newly developed Horological Emergency Distress Container.

Scholars of this journal will be delighted to learn that following extensive adjustments by experts at The Ministry of Temporal Affairs (Boffins and Tinkerers dept) we have now managed to establish regular communication although pictures do occasionally suffer slight immolation upon their extremities.

Evidently during a recent expedition to the Maastrichtian period of the Cretaceous, where they had hoped to establish the reasons behind the extinction of the megafauna present at the time, they suffered an impact of some kind whilst flying over the Isthmus of Panama. This impingement caused the failure previously reported.

The group's chief engineer Cog Master Tobias J. remains very hopeful of being able to repair the temporal homing matrix. It is however an enterprise not without considerable cost.

It would transpire that the group has found itself in Brighton in the far future of the 21st century, not far from the birthplace of the late Aubrey Beardsley. They have therefore opened a drinking establishment called The Yellow Book in the building that they were deposited in. Funds raised will be employed to repair the temporal homing matrix.

They have noted that although they cannot return to the 19th century they are able to continue their research and The Old Post will endeavour to keep our readers fully informed of their avocation.

Cog Master Tobias J, Admiral Ceridwen Harper-Leigh, Flight Lt Dixie Morgan and Dr Braxton Beesworth.

Persian Prince Recovers

The young Persian Prince Malik Mansour Mirza second son of the Shah, now visiting the European courts, has recovered from a rather serious illness while staying in Berlin. He will leave Germany for Paris in a few days. The prince was born in 1880 and his stay in Europe is mainly for educational purposes.
